What makes people most happy?

The charts are mainly about "What makes people most happy?" They show the difference results of the people under 30 and the people over 30. For the people under 30, more than 30% people feel happy when they have achievement at work. About 20% people feel happy when they're doing hobbies, 15% people think travelling makes them more happy and 18% people feel happy just because they have a good appearance. On the other hand, the results of the people over 30 are almost the same of the people under 30. The differences between the two chart are that the people over 30 don't think travelling and having a good appearance will make them feel most happy. 30% people think financial security let them feel happy and about 15% people like to being with their family.

In my opinion, the people under 30 are almost students, they like to go out with friends and teenagers are more care about their appearances. For the people over 30, their ability of work are almost great, they can make much money to buy the things they want, the most important is to take care of their family, by their side.
